

Thomas K. Elliott

Tommy Elliott's 30-year career spans a wide range of financial services within the banking industry in Kentucky. He holds a B.A. in Business and Office Administration from University of Kentucky and has been long-time community service leader.

During a 13-year career at National City Bank, he provided and managed private banking, investment and fiduciary services. Tommy led the Corporate and Business Owners Group of Private Client Group Louisville and managed the affiliate banks in Ashland, Bowling Green, Lexington and Owensboro.

Currently, Tommy serves as Senior Vice President of Old National Bank, Louisville, where he leads new commercial, investment, and retail business development. Additionally, his responsibilities include directing market strategies and executing opportunities to grow Old National's presence. In addition, Tommy manages the bank's community relations activity, including sponsorships, participation in events and community awareness development for the Old National Bank brand.

He is Chairman of the Baptist Hospital Foundation Board where he is committed to reaching out into the community to develop and strengthen strategic partnerships for the healthcare provider. Additionally, he serves on the boards for Baptist Hospital East and Baptist Healthcare Systems. He has been a twenty-five year board member and twice board chair of the American Heart Association, Kentuckiana Division. He also serves on the Board of the Little Sisters of the Poor.

Tommy served eight years as Mayor of the City of Norbourne Estates (Jefferson County) and two years on the board of Jefferson County League of Cities. He has served on the boards of Goodwill Industries of Kentucky, Kentucky Educational Television, Commonwealth Fund and Kentucky Art & Craft Foundation.

A native of Elizabethtown, KY, Tommy now enjoys living in Louisville with his wife, Maryanne Elliott and their four daughters.